

Inclusive Design Research Centre at OCAD University

- Growing design and development practices
- Creating tools that others can use and contribute to
- Teaching the principles and techniques of inclusive design
- Advocating for inclusion in international standards
- Providing services that match solutions with individuals

 idrc.ocad.ca

Inclusive Design Research Centre at OCAD University

- Growing design and development practices
- Creating tools that others can use and contribute to
- Teaching the principles and techniques of inclusive design
- Advocating for inclusion in international standards
- Providing services that match solutions with individuals

 idrc.ocad.ca

The IDRC is a research and development centre at OCAD University where an international community of open source developers, designers, researchers, advocates, and volunteers work together to ensure that emerging information technology and practices are designed inclusively.

The IDRC is a research and development centre at OCAD University where an international community of open source developers, designers, researchers, advocates, and volunteers work together to ensure that emerging information technology and practices are designed inclusively.

