SCENARIO REF: 2.2 In-museum kiosk: Printable digital brochure

<http://wiki.fluidproject.org/display/fluid/Map+tool+overview+and+scenarios>

A descriptive text block states: "You can view and select multiple tours and add them to the 'Selected Tours' window to the right." On the left side, three tour options are listed:

- TOUR A: Includes a small icon of a map or grid, a detailed description of the tour content, and "View" and "Add" buttons.
- TOUR B: Includes a small icon of a map or grid, a detailed description of the tour content, and "View" and "Add" buttons.
- TOUR C: Includes a small icon of a map or grid, a detailed description of the tour content, and "View" and "Add" buttons.

To the right of these options is a vertical scroll bar. To the right of the scroll bar is a large rectangular area titled "SELECTED TOURS" which contains the message "No tours selected yet". At the bottom of this area are two buttons: "Add Tour" and "View Selection".
