

Visiting Students Perspective (part 1)

The school bus arrives and 30 students enter the gallery through the group entrance.

The instructor asks students to break up into groups of 4/5 and . drop off their coats.

Andre, Jeff, Dylan and David, form team Photatoes and are assigned to gathering information about 19th Century paintings.

They notice a crowd of people grouped around the kiosks in Prentis Court, Marc asks if the group want to check-it out

Jeff runs over to the kiosk and touches the screen, a second screen that emerges introducing students to a set of predefined tours.

Dylan stands at the main kiosk selecting tours while the others stand in front of the large screen commenting on the tour choices.
